Credicorp Slice report: equipment purchase invoice

By CM Beyer Commercial Research Desk - Commercial research editor - Updated 11 July 2026

A report on spreading a business equipment invoice when asset finance is too heavy for the need.

Small equipment purchases can be too small or too urgent for a formal asset-finance process. The first check is whether the cost is dated, evidenced and likely to clear from a known receipt.

Credicorp Slice can fit one supplier invoice where the company wants a few instalments. That means fixing the amount before comparing rates, fees or monthly comfort.

For larger assets, compare dedicated asset finance before using a short instalment product. The links below are the source checks used for this page.

For Credicorp Slice, start with the supplier invoice. If there is no defined bill to spread, it is probably the wrong route.
